Are you as authentically happy as your social media profiles make it seem? When a group of researchers asked young adults around the globe what their number one priority was in life, the top answer was "happiness." Not success, fame, money, looks, or love...but happiness. For a rising generation of young adults raised as digital natives in a fast-paced, ultra-connected world, authentic happiness still seems just out of reach. While social media often shows well-lit selfies and flawless digital personas, today's 16- to 25-year-olds are struggling to find real meaning, connection, and satisfaction right alongside their overburdened parents. AN INTRODUCTION TO HAPPINESS tackles the ever-popular subject of happiness and well-being, but reframes it for a younger reader struggling with Instagram envy and high-stakes testing, college rejections and helicopter parents. Professor of positive psychology Dr. Tim Bono distills his most popular college course on the science of happiness into creative, often counterintuitive, strategies for young adults to lead happier, more fulfilling lives. Filled with exciting research, practical exercises, honest advice, and quotes and stories from young adults themselves, AN INTRODUCTION TO HAPPINESS is a master class for a generation looking for science-based, real world ways to feel just a little bit happier every day.

Have you ever wished to have people help in order to get what you really want? Than keep reading... Human life is driven by what we secretly, privately desire most. I am talking about the main desire that all of us keep secret to the rest of the world. This is usually the last thing we think about before going to sleep as well as the first thing we have in our mind just after waking up. However, people live an entire life without getting it. And the main reason is they don't know how to make their dream come true. So they lose confidence day by day till they forget their desire. I know it sounds very bad but the problem is we are not committed enough and we give up as soon as we meet the first obstacle. Some people think it's just a matter of commitment. They say "If I work hard, facing any kind of problems, I will achieve my goal." I am sorry to tell you this is not enough. And the reason is that we need other people help quite often. So being able to create and manage good and proficient relationships is the turning point. Even if this could sound reasonable for you, in my life I found two main mistakes people make. The first is to believe that influence and manipulation are bad techniques. The second mistake is to look at them as very difficult skills to be learnt. The latter is due to the fact those are unknown subjects to the majority of the people. Few years ago I had the same thoughts. So now you might be thinking "Did it help you"? A lot! I changed my life. But don't get me wrong I am not the overpromising guy so I will not tell you I became a millionaire, more beautiful and so on person. My life changed because now I am more confident and I made relevant changes such as quitting my old hated job to become an entrepreneur. I run a 6 figure small company with a team of 5 people and I know they will do their best to the success of my company. Why? Because I got skilled in analyzing and influencing people. So now I would like to share my knowledge with you. In this book you will get three main benefits: The essential background and knowledge about dark psychology you need to get started on this field The three variables of your powerful triangle to make your dreams come true 8 actionable methods to make others your soldiers plus a practicable approach to find out if you are born with a very important gift You might be thinking "Can I make this book work for me?" Because it is the perfect length for busy athletes with demanding career and family responsibilities. Full Iron-Distance races require such painstaking planning and sacrifice that it's difficult to keep life in balance. The Half Iron-Distance is accessible, while remaining challenging. Also known as the "70.3" for the sum of its 1.2 mile swim, 56 mile bike ride, and 13.1 mile run, the half-iron triathlon is not simply a race for which an athlete can use a full-iron training regimen chopped in half. Doing so would in no way approach maximizing an athlete's performance. The races are performed at completely different intensity levels, with completely different approaches. As a result, the training is completely different. IronFit Secrets to Half Iron-Distance Triathlon Success does for the half-iron what Be IronFit has done for the full-iron. It provides three sixteen-week training programs—Competitive, Intermediate, and "Just Finish"—and details everything an athlete needs to know to successfully prepare for and maximize performance at this racing distance. In as little as four months, any athlete can be physically and mentally ready for the world's most popular triathlon challenge.

The fun and simple problem-solving guide that took Japan by storm Ken Watanabe originally wrote Problem Solving 101 for Japanese schoolchildren. His goal was to help shift the focus in Japanese education from memorization to critical thinking, by adapting some of the techniques he had learned as an elite McKinsey consultant. He was amazed to discover that adults were hungry for his fun and easy guide to problem solving and decision making. The book became a surprise Japanese bestseller, with more than 370,000 in print after six months. Now American businesspeople can also use it to master some powerful skills.

Watanabe uses sample scenarios to illustrate his techniques, which include logic trees and matrixes. A rock band figures out how to drive up concert attendance. An aspiring animator budgets for a new computer purchase. Students decide which high school they will attend. Illustrated with diagrams and quirky drawings, the book is simple enough for a middle-schooler to understand but sophisticated enough for business leaders to apply to their most challenging problems.
