The National Assessment of Adult Literacy (NAAL) is a household survey conducted periodically by the Department of Education that evaluates the literacy skills of a sample of adults in the United States ages 16 and older. NAAL results are used to characterize adultsâ€™ literacy skills and to inform policy and programmatic decisions. The Committee on Performance Levels for Adult Literacy was convened at the Departmentâ€™s request for assistance in determining a means for booking assessment results that would be useful and understandable for NAALâ€™S many varied audiences. Through a process detailed in the book, the committee determined that five performance level categories should be used to characterize adultsâ€™ literacy skills: nonliterate in English, below basic literacy, basic literacy, intermediate literacy, and advanced literacy. This book documents the process the committee used to determine these performance categories, estimates the percentages of adults whose literacy skills fall into each category, recommends ways to communicate about adultsâ€™ literacy skills based on NAAL, and makes suggestions for ways to improve future assessments of adult literacy.

An up-and-down journey. Philip Blair - accompanied by a most loyal partner, and motivated by the sense that it is the road he is appointed to take - forged a career living and working in three distinct professions in six countries of the Middle East. Along the way there are some unexpected blips as well as a few touching - occasionally amusing - moments. Through this engaging odyssey, the reader learns both about the rich - though often disturbed - history of a region that has yet to find itself, and of occasional personal experiences of ugly or unsavoury situations. Photographs, enhanced by evocative sketches by Joanna Blair, help the reader stay on board through a slightly stormy voyage.
