The troubled borderland of Pakistan and Afghanistan the so-called AfPak region is one of the most dangerous areas of the world. Between 2006 and 2010 David L. Gosling lived in Peshawar, the provincial capital of Khyber-Pakhtunkhwa, where he was principal of Edwardes College, a prestigious higher education college, affiliated with the University of Peshawar. In this book, Gosling describes his time at Edwardes College and the challenges and changes of his tenure. Already the first co-educational college in the province, Gosling significantly increased the proportion of female students and staff. The book also describes the early stages of Taliban growth in Afghanistan, its spill-over into the tribal borderlands of Pakistan and how a combination of Pakistan army activity and US drone strikes provoked a furious backlash by Taliban groups against civilian targets in and around Peshawar, including death threats against the author. Providing a personal account of the education and politics of this frontier region, this book offers a unique viewpoint on a part of the world which is often misunderstood."

Professor Faiz M. Khan is a world-renowned medical physicist. He has a passion for delving into cosmology, evolution, and life philosophies. In this book, he recounts his childhood and early education in a small village in Pakistan, his college days in the ancient cities of Multan and Lahore, and his pursuit of getting the highest academic degree that his father had predicted when he was a child. He fulfilled that prediction by receiving his PhD from the University of Minnesota. Later, his sheer determination to excel in his academic career earned him the highest award from the American Association of Physicists in Medicine, namely the William D. Coolidge Gold Medal. In this book, Professor Khan writes the story of his life. It is his account of both the how and the why of living. From the trajectory of his life, one can surmise that simple beginnings are not a handicap in life.

The District of Columbia School Choice Incentive Act of 2003, passed by Congress in January 2004, established the first federally funded, private school voucher program in the United States. The purpose of the new scholarship program was to provide low-income parents, particularly those whose children attend schools identified for improvement or corrective action with expanded opportunities to attend higher performing schools in the District of Columbia. More than 8,400 students have applied for what is now called the DC Opportunity Scholarship Program (OSP), and rigorous evaluation of the Program, mandated by Congress, has been underway. This book describes the impacts of the Program at least four years after families who applied and were given the option to move from a public school to a participating private school of their choice.
