A neurotic, imaginative Bobby Nicksen finds himself in the height of a squirrel infestation. Has no time for anyone. Enter his best friend, Jim Trask. Trask offers advice and support but is out of his league. Ends up rekindling his long-ago love affair with Bobby's wife, Marion. Trask, a naive constable, proclaims his soul mission, playing the field, and...did.

Professing undying love for Marion, he also pursues friend Jules and other women in general. Except a hag named Jen Carver. Jen weasels her way into his life through Jules, who plots against Marion. Marion is secretly an undercover police detective, with her own agenda. Trask is confused and untrusting yet a slave to Marion's whims, ensuring cooperation in her investigation. Unbeknown to Trask, Jules is the leader of a crime syndicate. Bobby meanwhile blows up his home to thwart the squirrels. Speculation abounds whether he lived or died. After all, Bobby was a legend in his own mind. As for the squirrels, God's irony? There's always Bobby's traps...

Anand Kumar, a mathematics prodigy, defied all challenges to set up one of the most successful and innovative teaching initiatives in the world—Super 30. Born in Chandipur Bela, Patna, Anand secured a place in Cambridge University but couldn't attend because he had no money and sold papads in the evenings instead. He dealt with his own disappointment by setting up an innovative school in 2002 to prepare underprivileged students for the IIT JEE examination. Super 30 has an astonishing success rate and on an average, twenty-seven to twenty-eight of the thirty students crack the exam every year. Stirring and heart-wrenching, this is the extraordinary story of a visionary who has elevated these bright sparks and, through education, given them hope to rise above crippling poverty.

A scorching, trenchant, analysis of how the wealthiest group in American society is making life miserable for everyone—including themselves. In 21st century America, the top 0.1% of the wealth distribution have walked away with the big prizes even while the bottom 90% have lost ground. What's left of the American Dream has taken refuge in the 9.9% that lies just below the tip of extreme wealth. Collectively, the members of this group control more than half of the wealth in the country—and they are doing whatever it takes to hang on to their piece of the action in an increasingly unjust system. They log insane hours at the office and then turn their leisure time into an excuse for more career-building, even as they rely on an underpaid servant class to power their economic success and satisfy their personal needs. They have segregated themselves into zip codes designed to exclude as many people as possible. They have made fitness a national obsession even as swaths of the population lose healthcare and grow sicker. They have created an unprecedented demand for admission to elite schools and helped to fuel the dramatic cost of higher education. They channel their political energy into symbolic conflicts over identity in order to avoid acknowledging the economic roots of their privilege. And they have created an ethos of “merit” to justify their advantages. They are all around us. In fact, they are us—or what we are supposed to want to be. In The 9.9 Percent, Matthew Stewart argues that a new aristocracy is emerging in American society and it is repeating the mistakes of history. It is entrenching inequality, warping our culture, eroding democracy, and transforming an abundant economy into a source of misery. He calls for a regrounding of American culture and politics on a foundation closer to the original promise of America.

God's greatest gift to us is time. Without time, there would be nothing. The measurement of time has existed for trillions of years. Each solar system in the universe is more than a billion years old. In Time Keeper, author Barry F. Dugac helps you understand the concept of time. Through graphs and charts, he demonstrates the past, the present, and future of time. A wealth of calendars, graphs, and charts are at your fingertips in this book, including: • God's measurement of time; • Gregorian calendars; • Zodiac signs and their cycles; • time correction adjustment; • the times of Jesus Christ; • a look at the Bible through time; and more! Dugac underscores that universal time measurement was created by God, and all the laws of physics follow the master plan of God. Take a journey from 4,999,996,761 BC all the way to the destruction of Earth in 3239 AD and learn more about the dimension of time in Time Keeper.
