This book provides detailed, step-by-step advice to candidates on how to pass the Occupational English Test (OET), as well as 4 full-length practice tests. It contains information that all candidates should know about: the test structure, exercises and tutorials in relevant language skills, how to prepare, and how to pass. Each practice test includes all of the four sub-tests in the OET (writing, reading, listening and speaking). To access the listening sub-test audio, simply follow the YouTube instructions on page 162. The writing practice tests include examples of high-scoring answers. The listening test audio is prepared using instructions from the real exam, and can be accessed using the YouTube link provided in the book. The reading tests include explanations for each correct answer, and reasoning for why other options are incorrect. This is a comprehensive and easy-to-understand guide to passing the OET, put together by Anna Hartford based on her years of experience in helping students to pass the exam and begin working in their healthcare profession. About the author: Anna Hartford is an Australian OET teacher who has spent many years preparing candidates for the Occupational English Test. She has used her extensive knowledge of the OET to establish Progressive Coaching, a business specializing in helping healthcare professionals begin their career in Australia. NB: The reading sub-tests in this book are sourced from the book "Occupational English Test Preparation Book: Reading Sub-test" by Anna Hartford.

Co-authored by a leading ophthalmology researcher and a professor with fifteen years of experience teaching writing in the biomedical sciences, The Biomedical Writer addresses ways to use psychology and neuroscience to equip researchers and clinicians with an understanding of how effects like priming, primacy, recency, framing, and apparent paradoxes can make or break your articles and grant proposals. The Biomedical Writer covers everything from making sentences readable, effective, and memorable to working with collaborators under unforgiving deadlines. Going far beyond the basic structure and content of manuscripts and proposals, this guide to writing in biomedicine also focuses on topics that include handling negative results and the most important and neglected step in submitting manuscripts to journals.

This book provides students with a comprehensive overview of Australian and international public health issues and contexts. It explores recent changes in the local public health field, as well as complex global public health issues, and engages with the political and cultural impacts these have on public health systems. The book aims to deepen students' understanding of the determinants of health, historical and theoretical perspectives of public health, and current health research. Through consideration of new perspectives, it introduces the latest public health discourses and explores issues of health promotion and health inequalities that inform much of the understanding of public health today. Drawing on more than 25 years' experience, Pranee Liamputtong leads a stellar author team to present this essential resource. Each chapter includes learning objectives, key words, tutorial exercises and further reading, as well as illustrative and informative case studies to aid students' understanding of key concepts.

Health-centred research has changed hugely over the last ten years, from the importance of computing software to the NHS becoming more involved in research. The expectations of grant-awarding bodies, ethics committees and publishers have evolved and increased in many senses. This new edition is designed for trainee clinicians, not only those preparing for membership of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists (MRCOG) but also higher degree candidates and aspiring clinical academics. Chapter authors with extensive expertise make the path to embarking on research direct, straightforward and most importantly, fun and interesting, particularly aiming to support those who trained clinically and are now undertaking a research project or beginning an academic career. There remains no single book with so much relevant information gathered in a single, succinct volume. This edition now covers the wide spectrum of modern research methods for all specialities, with five supplementary chapters on major obstetric and gynaecological subspecialties.

Yatdjuligin: Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Nursing and Midwifery Care introduces students to the fundamentals of health care of Indigenous Australians, encompassing the perspectives of both the client and the health practitioner. Written for all nurses and midwives, this book addresses the relationship between Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures and mainstream health services and introduces readers to practice and research in a variety of healthcare contexts. This new edition has been fully updated to reflect current research and documentation, with an emphasis on cultural safety. Three new chapters cover Torres Strait Islander health and wellbeing, social and emotional wellbeing in mainstream mental health services and quantitative research. Chapter content is complemented by case study scenarios, author reflections and reflection questions. These features illustrate historical and contemporary challenges, encourage students to reflect on their own attitudes and values, and provide strategies to deliver quality, person-centred health care.

The Occupational English Test (OET) is the exam of choice for healthcare professionals seeking to expand their career globally.
