A hobby backed by centuries of tradition, amateur gem cutting remains popular today. Once a completely unskilled beginner himself, Captain John Sinkankas never forgot his struggles in learning how to cut and polish gemstones without the benefit of an instructor. With his own experience in mind, he wrote "Gem Cutting" to make it possible for others to teach themselves how to do every type of lapidary work without having to attend classes. For over half a century, "Gem Cutting" has served as the go-to guide for beginners and experts alike. Offering a wealth of information for everyone, it starts with the fundamentals and leads logically to techniques and projects that will challenge even the most advanced cutter. Every step is described in detail and illustrated with drawings and photographs. Sinkankas covers common pitfalls and, wherever possible, offers hints on how to take money-saving shortcuts. Incorporating tips on operating equipment for greatest efficiency, he explains how to make or choose equipment for sawing, grinding, sanding, and other basic operations. Special chapters describe how to cut and polish cabochons, faceted gems, spheres and beads; how to tumble gems; and how to make carvings, engravings, inlays, and mosaics. Sinkankas also advises on selecting and buying rough gemstones. A section on the description and treatment of gemstones has been expanded in this second edition to include more species and accommodate recent information on each. With its comprehensive guidance, "Gem Cutting" is an essential addition to the library of any lapidary. Captain John Sinkankas (1915-2002) dedicated his life to the study of earth sciences after his retirement from the US Navy. Winner of the "Desert Magazine" Literature Premium Award, Sinkankas authored a number of books on gemstones and published over 100 articles on lapidary subjects. He was a certified gemologist of the American Gem Society with memberships to the Mineralogical Society of America, New York Mineralogical Club, San Diego Mineral & Gem Society, and several other regional gem and mineral groups.

Economics is a social science concerned mainly with description and analysis of the production, distribution, and consumption of goods and services. Beyond the various theories and models, however, economics has close relationship with day to day life. This book reviews the economic journey of India over the last seventy years, and seeks to stimulate the readers' thinking on some major issues and potentialities facing the Indian economy. Five main themes flow through the book – India's potential to be the World's third largest economic power by 2030, the challenges of socio-economic equity that India faces, the several opportunities that India has in that journey, the critical role of governance, leadership, management and administration, and the importance of mindset changes to power India's future economic growth. A special focus is laid on the role of government policies and projects in socio-economic development. The book sensitises the readers, including college students in general, and students of economics in particular, to the happenings around us which have significant economic import. The book makes all through its seventy chapters several suggestions to power India's growth as a global economic superpower, on a plank of socioeconomic equity. This book serves as an expansive thought primer and focussed execution guide for an economically independent and resurgent India.

woke up at 3:32 A.M. in a cold sweat. . . . FEAR . . . ! What had I done? What papers that we signed did he actually take? I didn't know! I didn't know. I woke Stephen, babbling incoherently about losing the house and "what did I do?" . . . what did I do. I tried to be so careful, but I'm so stupid. What did I do?" "You're getting all upset about nothing," Steve said. "Maybe you should start taking you're pills again for a while." "Why? I'm not getting sick. I'm just afraid." "You're obsessing." "Oh, shut up. I am not obsessing. I'm concerned! Damn... Normal people get 'concerned', right? People with labels 'obsess'! Can't I just be concerned about something?" "Okay, you're concerned. But it's 3 o'clock in the morning. We can't do anything about it now. In the morning – we'll call him." "No. Don't call him. He'll have time to take out whatever he wants. Just go there and get the papers." "Just show up ... at his office ... And what if he's not there? Do I go away and just show up again? How many times should I do this?" "Oh, come on. I don't know. Just do it." "Okay. Okay. I know you're afraid and I'll try to do everything that I can to make you feel more comfortable about this, but can I please get some sleep now? I have to go to work in the morning." "Okay. But you'll go get the papers, right? ... Well, you had to pee, anyway. ... What?... What are you laughing at." "You're funny." "I'm not funny. Stop laughing." "Don't do this to me." "Do what? ... So, you'll get the papers, right?" "Right. I'll get the papers. ...if I can," he added. "Why don't you roll over and I'll rub your back for a while." "Okay." "Harder." "You know, I can call the Bar Association tomorrow and check on him if you want me to." "Yeah. That's a good idea. I did it already – numbers of months ago. I guess we can do it again though. Yeah, that would make me feel better. ...I'm sure he's okay. I mean, they said he was okay when I called the last time. But you could call again. Thank you." "Okay. I'll call tomorrow." "Scratch..." 7:15 found Steve rushing to get out the door. He was in the kitchen making his lunch. I was remembering Sara's very good advice: "Once I've chosen a stone, I never let it out of my hands," she had said. This sent another shiver down my back. "I know how he did it," I said. Steve looked at me sternly. "Did what?" he said. He obviously didn't want to have this conversation. And he especially didn't want to have it now, but he stopped and gave me his full undivided attention. "Switched the papers," I said. "I can tell you how he did it. If he did it," I added. The Great American Turquoise Rush was the period of the largest concerted effort to mine, process and market turquoise in the history of the United States. It started when traditional markets for the clear sky blue Persian turquoise closed and the east coast jewelers, who controlled the jewelry trade in the United States, were forced from necessity to reappraise the quality of turquoise from the southwest. The efforts to control this new market were begun in New Mexico but would expand into other states. This is the true story of that time, largely forgotten or remembered only from oral tradition.
