A. R. Myers's research in the history of late medieval England spanned more than forty years. Throughout his academic career 15th-century England, especially the documentary remnants of its administration, held his attention consistently though not exclusively. The relevant studies, fruits of his research in this field which were originally published in periodicals published over five decades, have here been brought together. As a corpus they provide a collection of important documents related to the crown, the royal household and parliament. Complete with a critical introduction by R. B. Dobson, this is the essential collection of the works of an influential historian of early modern England.

This second edition of Marketing Principles is designed to teach relevant, contemporary concepts and best practices in undergraduate marketing by demonstrating: o the importance of being market-oriented, with a focus on expanding the "marketers' toolbox", i.e. considering the expanded marketing mix through all areas of marketing o the need for a dynamic outlook on marketing, which responds to the continually changing world (e.g. where lines between traditional marketing concepts and strategies are blurred) o a continued focus on a key differentiating content coverage of the text, namely branding, the expanded marketing mix and customer-focus. EMM in particular will also be more strongly integrated throughout the text o the increasing interdependence of goods and services to the extent that goods and services are increasingly bundled together o the centrality of positioning to marketing o a focus on 'Digital Marketing and Social Networking' through the addition of a new chapter o a stronger Asia-Pacific focus through examples and pedagogical features.
