I'm not a perfect gentleman. I try to be. Really, I do. But when Diana runs screaming down the hall wearing nothing but a damp washcloth, all my gentlemanly intentions go out the window. She's got all sorts of Jedi mind tricks to make a man obsessed with getting her into bed, and I'm not gonna lie—I fall for every single one of them. Especially the one where she warns me not to fall for her.  Everyone knows that banging your new roomie is a bad idea. And if it wasn't for his sister's stupid pet pig, Wanda, chasing me out of the bathroom mid-shower, Tanner Nowicki and I might still be able to pretend we hate each other. But that pig totally has it out for me, and before I can warn Tanner that I don't do relationships—or hockey players or my brother's friends, for that matter—he's doing me. Against the wall. And in his bed. And in my bed. And on a pinball machine where we get an all time high score. And it's so incredible that I start to forget that I'm the unluckiest woman alive when it comes to relationships. And pigs. And aerial yoga. And worst of all, love. But hey, it's not like I didn't warn him...

I needed a role model for my son. A big brother to mentor him. What I didn't need was a rebellious hockey player famous for his on and off rink fights. I should have said no. Should have vetoed the idea the second I heard it. But I didn't. Why, you ask. Two words. Liam. Dalton. God's gift to the universe, not to mention the needy spot between my legs. I didn't want to like him. I didn't want his name on my lips. But the second I heard mine on his, I couldn't help but wonder if my son's big brother... ..could be my big daddy.

I've sworn off hockey players. Until the pregnancy test turns pink. Noah Scotch is revered in Boston, a veritable god on the ice. I'm a nerdy, newly minted college professor who would rather color code my planner than hit the club scene. Noah shouldn't look at me twice but when he does, I falter. Who can blame me? The sweet talker with the deliciously chiseled abs and sinful chocolate eyes is a force. On and off the ice. One hot and intense night with Noah has me second guessing my lack of a dating life. Friends with benefits? He offers, I dive in headfirst. Growing up in a hockey family, I know better than to get serious with a player. But the more time I spend getting to know Noah, the more my intention to keep things casual rings false. Now, I've got a hopeful heart and a baby on the way. I just need to tell Noah. But when I do, will I end up with everything I never knew I wanted? Or on my own?
