

Report On The Excavations At Usk 1965 76 Preflavian Fine Wares Report On The Excavations At Usk 1965 1976

This volume reports on excavations carried out by Peter D. Harrison in the early 1960s in the West Plaza of the Maya center of Tikal, Guatemala. Primarily descriptive in nature, this work is an important compliment to Tikal Report No. 14: Excavations in the Great Plaza, North Terrace, and North Acropolis of Tikal, by William R. Coe. The West Plaza was originally the western portion of the Great Plaza until construction of Great Temple II separated it. Subsequently, the West Plaza took on its own identity. This report presents data from these investigations no longer retrievable in the field and, therefore, of importance to anyone interested in the development of Tikal's epicenter. Tel Maresha is located in the foothills of Israel's Judaeen Mountains. It was established in the Iron Age II (circa 700 BCE) and is mentioned in the Hebrew Bible (Josh 15:44; I Chron. 2:42). But it was mainly a Hellenistic-period town - a major Idumean political and administrative center. One of the unique and fascinating aspects of Maresha is its subterranean city - hundreds of underground galleries and chambers filled to the gills with artifacts. This volume is a report of the excavations of one of these rich subterranean complexes - SC 169 - which contained a full corpus of Hellenistic pottery forms - both local and exotic altars, figurines, amulets, seals and seal impressions, hundreds of inscriptions in Greek and Aramaic, coins, jewelry and much more. These finds tell the story of an affluent cosmopolitan society comprised of Idumeans, Phoenicians, Greeks, and Jews, who lived together in a vibrant urban setting until the city was destroyed, probably by the Jewish Hasmonean kingdom in 104 BCE. Excavations in Residential Areas of Tikal—Nonelite Groups Without Shrines is a two-volume presentation of the excavations carried out in and near small residential structures at Tikal, Guatemala, beginning in 1961. These reports show that Tikal was more than a ceremonial center; in addition to its numerous temples, the great Maya city was home to a large population of people. These volumes look at the residential structures themselves as well as domestic artifacts such as burials, ceramic test pits, chultuns. Tikal Report 20A is a descriptive presentation of the excavation data and includes nearly two hundred illustrations. Together with Tikal Report 20B, which reviews and interprets this data, this report augments the data presented in Tikal Reports 19 and 21.

This fascinating text contains a Report on excavations that took place at the site that was once the great Indian city of Pataliputr, written by the famous explorer, L. A Waddell. Palibothra was a city famous in eastern legend and of great historic importance. Although it wasn't the oldest of cities in India, it was the seat of the most powerful dynasties and the first fixed landmark in Indian chronology, holding secrets that may answer important questions as to the influence of the West upon the early civilisation of ancient India. Chapters contained within this report are: Historical Introduction, Search for the Lost Site, Discovery of the Lost Site, Excavations, and Summary of results. Lieutenant Colonel Laurence Austine Waddell was British explorer, Professor of Chemistry and Pathology, British army surgeon, amateur archaeologist, and author. This rare book has been chosen for republication due to its historic value and is proudly
