Motherhood, how many ways have we tried to explain such a complex and intriguing phenomenon. What would make one do the unspeakable, the unimaginable all in the name of Motherhood? What makes a mother? We know it's not all genetic for there are countless examples of those who have stepped into the role of Mother without ever bearing a child. Mother, such a heavy title yet taken and worn by so many without even breaking a sweat, as if it weighed less than a feather. Songs have been written; poems recited all in honor of this person, who often operates quietly behind the scenes, raising, nurturing and molding the minds and lives of future generations. It seems that no matter how many days have been set aside or programs planned in honor of Mothers, it's never enough. So, once again this is another attempt to tell Mothers just how much they are loved, needed and appreciated. We the members of the Women's Ministry of Bethel Memorial A.M.E. Church have taken this moment in time to pause and pay tribute to our Mothers.

Excerpt from Hadley, the Regicides, Indian, and General History: A Souvenir in Honor of Major-General Joseph Hooker and in Anticipation of the Memorial Exercises at His Birthplace, Tuesday, May 7, 1895; Dedicated to the Third Corps, and to All the Heroes of the War Tradition proves that this has always been a favored spot in the eyes of the children of men who inhabited it. Indian trails from all points of the compass concentrated on the rude forts scattered along the foothills that formed the rim of the basin, and as a military necessity the pioneers of the white race chose the neck of a peninsula formed by a sweep of the river, in the midst of a verdant meadow, as one more resting place for weary feet while subduing a wilderness. At the present time the valley is becoming crowded with thriving towns, the electric gong and steam whistle are heard in the land, and there is much running to and fro in the interest of material things. But, as in the beginning, the wide street still spans the peninsula, the river still loops its silver ribbon around the grassy meadows, and the church spires pierce the blue out of the elm embowered foliage. Peaceful as a dream of childhood, ancient in dress of bygone days. Old Hadley holds a proud place as a mother and protector of famous names in the stirring drama of the world's history. Sleepy, quiet Hadley! How the sons and daughters love to come back from their wanderings and look upon thy face out of the shadow of the mountain. Excerpt from Dedication Souvenir of the Chambers-Wylie Memorial Presbyterian Church: Broad Street, Below Spruce, Philadelphia At that time the quiet of God's house was not allowed to be disturbed No vehicle of any kind could pass along the street, for a chain, from sidewalk to sidewalk, was stretched, and the marble pillar on the east side, to which the chain was attached, is there to this day. At six in the morning there was a prayer meeting; at nine, the Sabbath School; at ten - thirty, the forenoon church services at one, a rehearsal of sacred hymns; at two, another session of the Sabbath School; at three-thirty, the afternoon church services, and at seven - thirty, a prayer and conference meeting. A pilgrim spirituality for Holy Land travel, Jerusalem Bound resources the Christian traveler with biblical, historical, and contemporary images of the pilgrim life. Integrating historical sources, on-the-ground experience, and the voices of global pilgrims, Jerusalem Bound presents a fresh approach to pilgrimage, explores pilgrim identity and the Holy Land experience, offers ideas for Holy Land travel, and encourages pilgrims to focus upon the Other as much as themselves. Unique among Holy Land resources, Jerusalem Bound discusses material that is seldom addressed on a Holy Land journey: the motives of Holy Land pilgrims, the history of the Christian Holy Land, understanding the holy sites, pilgrim practices, material objects, and the challenges of Holy Land pilgrimage. Emphasizing the incarnational nature of lived experience, the book encourages pilgrims to derive meaning in both the highs and lows of religious travel. Attentive to the transformational nature of pilgrimage, Jerusalem Bound is ultimately interested in Christian formation and the aftermath of the Holy Land journey.

The devotional and historical services were of a high order, and were enjoyed by enthusiastic audiences, who were inspired and instructed. The music throughout was of rare beauty, richness, and dignity; the selections manifested a true sympathy with the spirit of the occasion and were faultlessly rendered. The singing of old hymns that had often stirred the hearts and deepened the devotion of the fathers and mothers, was a feature that excited very favorable comment. Excerpt from Dedication of the Converse Memorial Building: Exercises at the Methodist Episcopal Church To His Honor the Mayor, and the City Council of Malden: Gentlemen, - For some years we have had in mind the erection in Maiden of a memorial to our son, Frank E. Converse. The establishment of a public library through the bequest of Mr. John Gardner, its rapid growth, and consequent inconvenient location, pointed to a way in which the memorial could take shape and also be of utility to the public. We therefore desire, through you, to present to the city of Maiden, to be held in trust forever by it, or by a corporation duly authorized, the lot of land next to the Baptist Church on Salem Street, and the edifice thereon now in process of construction and soon to be completed, to be known as the Converse Memorial Building, for the free use of the city as a place of deposit for the library and works of art. We shall be obliged if you will at your convenience take such action as you deem proper on this notice. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. This book innovatively explores the notion of koinonia for understanding the nature and function of the Church. Since the Scriptures assert that the Church is the Church of God, God's communal mode of existence is looked at namely, God who is a communion of three hypostases relating to one another in an interpenetrating koinonia of infinite love as a way of understanding the very being of the church as communion. Such a notion of koinonia, far from having anything to do with socio-political understandings, suggests that it is a foundational gift bestowed from above to the world as the solution par excellence to the impasse of isolationism. More often than not, however, such an ecclesiology of communion has not taken seriously the historical reality of the Church living within the fallen world along with its ceaseless temptations, divisions and even sins in history. In this way, it becomes apparent that a dialectic needs to be acknowledged in the notion of communion as both foundational gift from God, and yet one still to be fully realised.

Accordingly, this work shows that the Church is not only as the gift of God's miraculous presence here on earth. The Church is also constantly striving to exist epiclestically until such time as it will fully experience the final consummation in Gods eschatological kingdom. An examination of this double dimensionality of the Church is undertaken in order to assess if this is in line with the Scriptural witness of the ekklesia. Having established the gift-goal dialectic in the notion of koinonia in the New Testament Church, the study then traces the trajectory of this dynamic approach to koinonia in the Churchs worship and authoritative structures. This promises to cast both a deeper light on, and a more realistic solution to ecclesiological problems within the life of the Church today, allowing for the Churchs constant renewal.
