Winner of the American Indian Library Association Youth Literature Awards, Best Picture Book. Trickster Coyote is having his friends over for a festive solstice get-together in the woods when a little girl comes by unexpectedly. She leads the party-goers through the snowy woods to a shopping mall -- a place they have never seen before. Coyote gleefully shops with abandon, only to discover that filling your shopping cart with goodies is not quite the same thing as actually paying for them. The trickster is tricked and goes back to his cabin in the woods -- somewhat subdued -- though nothing can keep Coyote down for long. It's one thing to believe in witches...but quite another to hunt one. What do you do when the ghost of your dead father-in-law appears to you and tells you he was killed by a witch, and he wants you to help him get his revenge? Answer: You call him crazy and drink more wine, of course...and then you stupidly agree to help him. My name is Fergie Thompson, and I'm now on a mission to kill a witch before she can sacrifice my ex-wife and summon a great evil into the world. Not my usual thing, witch hunting-I can barely find my keys in the morning. But my father-in-law is offering money-a lot of money. So armed with no skills whatsoever except in drinking Buckfast wine and the ability to swing a Hurley stick, I'm dragged into a world of witchcraft, murderous ghosts and cosmic horrors as I battle to save our wee Northern Irish town, and perhaps even, the world at large. Not sure about the ex-wife, though...she can save herself.
