The guide by FourWeekMBA on business models, to get up to date with all the potential models born and evolved during the web era and rising with the digital revolution happening on the web. A business model is a framework for finding a systematic way to unlock long-term value for an organization while delivering value to customers and capturing value through monetization strategies. A business model is a holistic framework to understand, design, and test your business assumptions in the marketplace. In this guide, we'll see also 53 business model types identified by the FourWeekMBA research. Ever since, this list started to be published, back in 2018, many copycats around the web have started to duplicate it without understanding the meaning of each model referenced here. Thus, if you need our feedback, feel free to reach out. You can jump directly to any of them below or read the guide in order: A mix of chain and franchise business model Ad-supported (subsidized) business model Affiliate business model Aggregator business model Agency-based business model Asymmetric business models Attention merchant business model Barbell business model Bidding multi-brand platform model Blitzscaler-mode business model Blockchain-based business models Bundler model Cash conversion cycle or cash machine model Discount business model focusing on high quality Distribution based business model Direct-to-consumers business model Direct sales business model E-commerce marketplace business model Educational niche business model Family-owned integrated business model Feeding model Freemium model (freemium as a growth tool) Free-to-play model Freeterprise model Gatekeeper model Heavy-franchised business model Humanist enterprise business model Enterprise business model built on complex sales Lock-in business model Instant news business model Management consulting business model Market-maker model Multi-brand business model Multi-business model Multi-sided platform business model Multimodal business model Multi-product (Octopus) business model On-demand subscription-based business model One-for-one business model Open-Source Business Model Peer-to-peer business model Platform-agnostic model Platform business model Privacy as an innovative business model Razor and blade revenue model Self-serving model Space-as-a-service model Subscription-based business model Surfer model: reverse-engineering the gatekeeper Three-sided marketplace model User-generated content business model User-generated AI-amplified model Unbundler model Vertically integrated business model What is a business model and why is it important? A business model is a critical element for any startup's success as it is what unlocks value in the long term. In a way, developing a business model isn't only about monetization strategies. Indeed, that is way more holistic. To develop a business model companies need to create value for several stakeholders. Thus, a business model is about what makes users go back to your app, service, or product. It is about how businesses can get value from your solution. It is about how suppliers grow their business through it. A business model is all those things together. In short, when those pieces come together, that is when you can say to have a business model.

Scholarly Research Paper from the year 2007 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1,3, University of Applied Sciences Berlin, course: Marketing, language: English, comment: This paper provides content on 31 pages and furthermore, there is an Integral Total Management Checklist at the end giving a 360-degree feedback to the topic under all management perspectives., abstract: Due to strong competition and a continuous market change, most companies engage in strategic planning today to become or stay competitive in the long run. Strategy is all-embracing. Strategy has to capture internal and external aspects, that means to comprise competencies and market opportunities. Strategy has to keep in view the own company, the customers and the competitors. The challenge is to create customer values and competitive advantages to assure benefits and growth. As a result, the starting point of every strategic decision demonstrates the recognition and the analysis of the company's current situation containing a high variety of parameters. These parameters are generally defined by the company's influence into internal and external parameters. However, the understanding of the company's situation is only defined in absolute by analysing parameters and its bilateral dependencies. Therefore, the combination of the company's internal factors and the external environmental circumstances presents the basis for the strategy development and the resulting organisational marketing goals and application of the marketing instruments. The SWOT analysis is a strategic planning tool used to evaluate the Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats of a company. It provides information that is helpful in matching the company's resources and capabilities to the competitive environment in which it operates. The resulting SWOT matrix contrasts the results of the internal analysis (strengths and weakness) and the ex

Over the past ten years, there has been growing interest in the process of strategic decision-making among both managers and researchers. Strategic decisions are important for five main reasons: They are large-scale, risky and hard to reverse; they are a bridge between deliberate and emerging strategies; they can be a major source of organizational learning; they play an important part in the development of individual managers and they cut across functions and academic disciplines. Strategic Decisions summarizes the current state of the art in research on strategic decision-making, with chapters prepared by leading strategy researchers. The editors also present implications for current application and proposed directions for future research.

Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: A, University of Bradford, course: MBA, 50 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: Terms of Reference This marketing plan for the BMW 1-series aims to outline and analyse the market environment in Germany. Also, an evaluation of the strategic and operational orientation as well as the strength and weaknesses of the product should be given. Based on this, recommendations for the future direction and implementation of the marketing-mix will be given. Executive Summary In the competitive compact segment (short: C-segment) with increasingly demanding customers, BMW with its newly launched product clearly builds on its premium image as a sports car manufacturer. Although this is generally a good strategy, certain parts of the marketing mix need to be adjusted. Especially the high price of the product in comparison with its competitors is a potential problem. The following suggestions can be given to successfully built up a sustainable leading position in this segment, which is very important in terms of Customer-Lifetime-Value (CLV): - Reduction of quality problems - New technology development through increased R&D measures - Increased promotional measures focused on the target group - Strengthening of the dealer relationship - Development of new distribution channels

Seminar paper from the year 2010 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1.7, University of applied sciences, Munich, course: MBA, language: English, abstract: The Body-Washer has been introduced to the European market just lately aiming for the healthcare sector. Due to the versatile concept of the product and the ease of use additional interest from the hotel sector and from private households for wellness and nursing purposes arises. Furthermore, the Arabic peninsula, in particular from the UAE, has signaled interest in the unique product. Subsequently the UAE market in this regards is analyzed from two different perspectives. The analysis was done on a micro- as well as on a macro-environmental view. The investigations are on the company itself, the suppliers as well as customers and competitors on the one hand side and local aspects such as political, economic and social trends on the other. Together with the SWOT analysis of the product with respect to the UAE market a marketing strategy has been developed. As part of the marketing strategy, a market segmentation was done in order to derive the target market for the Body Washer in the UAE, the health care as well as the tourism sector. For the target market segments a "4P" analysis (price, product, place and promotion) has been done followed by an implementation plan accordingly. The conclusion and the ITM checklist are finalizing the marketing assignment on the Body Washer marketing plan for the UAE summarizing the main aspects.

This work shows how the various elements of consumer analysis fit together in an integrated framework, called the Wheel of Consumer Analysis. Psychological, social and behavioural theories are shown as useful for understanding consumers and developing more effective marketing strategies. The aim is to enable students to develop skills in analyzing consumers from a marketing management perspective and in using this knowledge to develop and evaluate marketing strategies. The text identifies three groups of concepts - affect and cognition, behaviour and the environment - and shows how these they influence each other as well as marketing strategy. The focus of the text is managerial, with a distinctive emphasis on strategic issues and problems. Cases and questions are included in each chapter.

Principles of Management is designed to meet the scope and sequence requirements of the introductory course on management. This is a traditional approach to management using the leading, planning, organizing, and controlling approach. Management is a broad business discipline, and the Principles of Management course covers many management areas such as human resource management and strategic management, as well behavioral areas such as motivation. No one individual can be an expert in all areas of management, so an additional benefit of this text is that specialists in a variety of areas have authored individual chapters.

Research Paper (undergraduate) from the year 2019 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1.00, University of Santo Tomas (Faculty of Arts and Letters), course: Legal Management, language: English, abstract: Kitkat fame has skyrocketed since its first creation back in 17th century. And through the years, it grows steadily under Nestlé SA. Through the years, Nestlé has gained a lot of sales and saw a rapid organic growth from this confectionary chocolate. Since then, the Kitkat brand has grown compared to its other competitors. The sales grow steadily as provided in the Euromonitor and how other people such as our respondents think that it is one of the number one brands. The researchers analyze this brand on how the sales grows gradually over time. The researchers analyze its strength and weaknesses and how it provides opportunities while trying to avoid the possible threats it might encounter. The researchers also analyze its marketing objectives such as to be the largest food manufacturer. As predicted by its 3-year sales forecast, it will increase its shares by almost 3.08% or by almost 4.0 shares. Accordingly, it will target different market shares and also possible market segments such as the working class and those students who are in need of an energy outlet. By positioning itself, the brand may analyze how to make its chocolate confectionary brand different compared to other competitors. And by using other types of communications in order to promote the product such as advertising and personal selling in order to build customer relationship. At the same time, the researchers also analyze the 4Ps of marketing in order to understand the brand more clearly.

Is my enterprise really prepared for future business? What can I do to become more competitive? Ulf Pillkahn's book is directed at all of those seeking answers to these questions: executives in strategic positions, business analysts, consultants, trend scouts, marketing and product managers and research engineers. The book presents the two most powerful tools for future planning: environmental analysis, based on the use of trends, as well as the development of visions of the future through the use of scenarios. While scenarios are generally regarded as a classical management tool, it is expected that the importance of trends will gain tremendously in the coming years. Pillkahn demonstrates how to build robust strategies by aligning the results of environmental and enterprise scenarios, thereby offering entirely new insights. "Using Trends and Scenarios as Tools for Strategy Development" convincingly illustrates why efficient observation of the environment of an enterprise is an absolutely essential factor for strategy development, and why strategy development only works if it is institutionalized as a permanent enterprise process. It also addresses the issue of what information is needed to keep both processes running. The book further describes how trends can be categorized, and offers advice on how to glean the essential information from the vast variety of trends. Information is provided on how scenarios are used as a holistic instrument for creating visions and pictures of the future, and how the results of trend research and scenario techniques find their way into entrepreneurial strategy development. An optimized strategy development process is also outlined. Practical examples and real-life pictures of the future round off Pillkahn's insightful discussion of future business planning.

The Art of Company Valuation and Financial Statement Analysis: A value investor's guide with real-life case studies covers all quantitative and qualitative approaches needed to evaluate the past and forecast the future performance of a company in a practical manner. Is a given stock over or undervalued? How can the future prospects of a company be evaluated? How can complex valuation methods be applied in practice? The Art of Company Valuation and Financial Statement Analysis answers each of these questions and conveys the principles of company valuation in an accessible and applicable way. Valuation theory is linked to the practice of investing through financial statement analysis and interpretation, analysis of business models, company valuation, stock analysis, portfolio management and value Investing. The book's unique approach is to illustrate each valuation method with a case study of actual company performance. More than 100 real case studies are included, supplementing the sound theoretical framework and offering potential investors a methodology that can easily be applied in practice. Written for asset managers, investment professionals and private investors who require a reliable, current and comprehensive guide to company valuation, the book aims to encourage readers to think like an entrepreneur, rather than a speculator, when it comes to investing in the stock markets. It is an approach that has led many to long term success and consistent returns that regularly outperform more opportunistic approaches to investment.

Business Planning and Market Strategy offers students, entrepreneurs, and executives penetrating insights into developing business plans and market strategies that bolster the odds of succeeding in today's highly competitive marketplace. Rather than reduce the planning process to mechanistic, step-by-step instructions, which promote "thinking inside the box," author E.K. Valentin provides practical planning guidelines that encourage creative strategic problem solving. Drawing on both his business experience and the business literature, he explains not only what entrepreneurs and executives should look at when pondering plans and strategies, but also what they should look for. The book's unique applied perspective, sets Business Planning & Market Strategy apart from conventional "how to" planning guides.

In a next step, the profile of the company, amazon, is analysed, before, in, a a fourth step, a related strategic plan for the marketing of the amazon echo is developed. In doing so, special focus is put on the aspects of marketing mix and further strategic analysis. Finally, this works ends by giving a short overview over the findings.

Diploma Thesis from the year 2006 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1, Pforzheim University, 40 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: This study looks at external and internal key influences of the environment of the Ryanair Company. This is as a first step important to come up with strategies, which Ryanair could take to stay as successful as they are right now. The first chapter starts with an analysis (PESTEL) of the external environment (macro-environmental), which includes all the external factors such as economic, political, legal, technological, ecological and sociocultural, that can exert direct and indirect pressure on both domestic and international marketing activities. The second chapter goes on with a critical evaluation of the firm's current and anticipated internal environment (micro-environmental) with respect to its objectives and performance, allocation of resources, structural characteristics, and political power. Therefore the SWOT Analysis is used as well as the Value Chain Analysis. The last point in this part is the identification of core competencies of Ryanair. Furthermore the Porter's Five Forces Method is used for identifying the market structure in which Ryanair is operating. The Competitor Analysis follows this. Finally, the last section gives a brief summary with important concluding remarks. What has to be stated is that in the following 15 pages just a rough overview of the main points of this assignment is given. Further details are important to evaluate everything and this is given in the appendix.

3000. That's the number of marketing messages the average American confronts on a daily basis from TV commercials, magazine and newspaper print ads, radio commercials, pop-up ads on gaming apps, pre-roll ads on YouTube videos, and native advertising on mobile news apps. These commercial messages are so pervasive that we cannot help but be affected by perpetual come-ons to keeping buying. Over the last decade, advertising has become more devious, more digital, and more deceptive, with an increasing number of ads designed to appear to the untrained eye to be editorial content. It's easy to see why. As we have become smarter at avoiding ads, advertisers have become smarter about disguising them. Mara Einstein exposes how our shopping, political, and even dating preferences are unwittingly formed by brand images and the mythologies embedded in them. Advertising: What Everyone Needs to Know(R) helps us combat the effects of manipulative advertising and enables the reader to understand how marketing industries work in the digital age, particularly in their uses and abuses of "Big Data." Most importantly, it awakens us to advertising's subtle and not-so-subtle impact on our lives--both as individuals and as a global society. What ideas and information are being communicated to us--and to what end?

Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1,2, language: English, abstract: In 2007 the Volkswagen group with its headquarters in Wolfsburg, Germany sold 6,191,618 vehicles worldwide and 329,305 employees generated a sales revenue of 108,897,000 with an operating profit of 6,151,000 which in turn resulted in a profit after tax of 4,122,000 .1 The group is divided into two divisions, namely the automotive one, accounting for 91% of total revenues plus the financial one, contributing 9% to the total turnover. Within the automotive sector, the company markets its vehicles under brands like, VW passenger cars, Audi, Bentley, Bugatti, Lamborghini, Seat and Skoda. In 1984, Volkswagen as the first western auto maker, began its operational activity in China. When it entered the market it had to form a joint venture with a Chinese company to produce cars. By now the group has thirteen representative companies. Due to its early engagement in the biggest Asian market, it reached a leading position which despite some previous challenges lasted until today. For example, the corporation sold 910,000 vehicles (VW + Audi) in Hong Kong as well as in the mainland of China which resulted in a market share of 17.8% in 2007.2 Therefore, China is (yet) after Germany the second most important market for Volkswagen, representing almost 15% of the company car sales. In the following international marketing plan, the author will describe how to increase car sales and boost market share up to 20% over the next 2 years with the introduction of a new small light weight hybrid car, the Volkswagen Cotha. [...]
