Chi ha conosciuto di persona Mario Dondero sa che è impossibile fargli raccontare la sua vita senza che lui ci metta dentro quella di tutti gli altri. E così questa autobiografia è diventata la biografia del fotogiornalismo narrata da Dondero, umanissimo umanista, mitissimo rivoluzionario, viaggiatore sempre 'donderoad', grande griot della visione. "la Repubblica" Incontri, aneddoti, agganci con storie incredibili e mai banali, dove i nomi della grande cultura del '900 compaiono assieme a quelli dei primi fotoreporter e dei primissimi creatori di agenzie. Il tutto tenuto insieme da un collante comune: la passione. Danilo De Marco, "Il Venerdì di Repubblica" Il più bel periodo del fotogiornalismo internazionale raccontato da uno dei migliori fotografi italiani. Mario Dondero rivela le storie che stanno dietro le immagini sue e di alcuni colleghi, spiegando il vero senso del mestiere del fotoreporter. Fabrizio Villa, "Corriere della Sera"

A long, friendly conversation between the American artist Alec Soth and the Italian curator and critic Francesco Zanot. Analyzing his most famous photographs as well as others that have never been published or are virtually unknown, Soth reflects upon his career as a photographer. Each picture gives rise to a chapter of its own, an original thought or reflection. Soth's images are shuffled together here to form new sequences: tracing the threads of memories, addressing cultural issues and references, and thus creating unforeseen and unforeseeable connections. Storytelling, use of colour and black and white, staged and candid approaches and personal issues are just some of the topics discussed in the book, resulting in a combination of images and words that constitutes a deep analysis of Soth's work as well as a manual on the reading of photography itself.

IL LIBRO CHE SPIEGA COME FUNZIONA E A COSA SERVE LA MACCHINA DEL FALSO Se un tempo le verità inconfessabili del potere erano coperte dal silenzio e dal segreto, oggi la guerra contro la verità è combattuta sul terreno della parola e delle immagini. Perché chiamiamo democratico un Paese dove il governo è stato eletto dal 20 per cento degli elettori? Perché dopo ogni "riforma" stiamo peggio di prima? Come può un muro di cemento alto otto metri e lungo centinaia di chilometri diventare un "recinto difensivo"? In cosa è diversa la tortura dalle "pressioni fisiche moderate" o dalle "tecniche di interrogatorio rafforzate"? Perché nei telegiornali i Territori occupati diventano "Territori"? Perché un terrorista che compie una strage a Damasco diventa un ribelle? Che cosa distingue l'economia di mercato dal capitalismo? Rispondere a queste domande significa occuparsi del grande protagonista

The proposed volumes are aimed at a multidisciplinary audience and seek to fill the gap between law, semiotics and visibility providing a comprehensive theoretical and analytical overview of legal visual semiotics. They seek to promote an interdisciplinary debate from law, semiotics and visibility bringing together the cumulative research traditions of these related areas as a prelude to identifying fertile avenues for research going forward. essays explores the many facets both historical and contemporary of visual culture in the law. It opens a window onto the substantive, jurisdictional, disciplinary and methodological diversity of current research. It is a cornucopia of materials that will enliven legal studies for those new to the field as well as for established scholars. It is a 'must read' that will leave you wondering about the validity of the long held obsession that reduces the law and legal studies to little more than a preoccupation with the word. Leslie J Moran Professor of Law, Birkbeck College, University of London Law, Culture & Visual Studies is a treasure trove of insights on the entwined roles of legality and visuality. From multiple interdisciplinary perspectives by scholars from around the world, these pieces reflect the fullness and complexities of our visual encounters with law and culture. From pictures to places to postage stamps, from forensics to film to folklore, this anthology is an exciting journey through the fertile field of law and visual culture as well as a testament that the field has come of age. Naomi Mezey, Professor of Law, Georgetown University Law Center, Washington, D.C., USA This highly interdisciplinary reference work brings together diverse fields including cultural studies, communication theory, rhetoric, law and film studies, legal and social history, visual and legal theory, in order to document the various historical, cultural, representational and theoretical links that bind together law and the visual. This book offers a breath-taking range of resources from both well-established and newer scholars who together cover the field of law's representation in, interrogation of, and dialogue with forms of visual rhetoric, practice, and discourse. Taken together this scholarship presents state of the art research into an important and developing dimension of contemporary legal and cultural inquiry. Above all, Law Culture and Visual Studies lays the groundwork for rethinking the nature of law in our densely visual culture: How are legal meanings produced, encoded, distributed, and decoded? What critical and hermeneutic skills, new or old, familiar or unfamiliar, will be needed? Topical, diverse, and enlivening, Law Culture and Visual Studies is a vital research tool and an urgent invitation to further critical thinking in the areas so well laid out in this collection. simply "Garrett." Challenged by the mystery and pulled by emotions she doesn't fully understand, Theresa begins a search for this man that will change her life. What happens to her is unexpected, perhaps miraculous-an encounter that embraces all our hopes for finding someone special, for having a love that is timeless and everlasting.... Nicholas Sparks exquisitely chronicles the human heart. In his first bestselling novel, The Notebook, he created a testament to romantic love that touched readers around the world. Now in this New York Times bestseller, he renews our faith in destiny, in the ability of lovers to find each other no matter where, no matter when...

When the last vestiges of his childhood are taken from him, Zerocalcare discovers unsuspected secrets about his family. Torn between the soothing numbness of the innocence of youth and the impossibility to elude society's ever expanding control over people's lives, he'll have to understand where he really comes from, before he understands where he is going.

These interviews and encounters document Charles Bukowski's long rise to world renown, beginning in 1963 and ending seven months before his death in 1993.

Islamisk terror og den vestlige verden

The life of a female war photographer killed in action is told by three of her friends in this biographical novel by the author of Bloody Cow. Gerda Taro was a German-Jewish war photographer, anti-fascist activist, artist, and innovator who, together with her partner, the Hungarian Endre Friedmann, was one half of the alias Robert Capa, widely considered to be the twentieth century's greatest war and political photographer. She was killed while documenting the Spanish Civil War and tragically became the first female photojournalist to be killed on a battlefield. August 1, 1937, Paris. Taro's twenty-seventh birthday, and her funeral. Friedmann leads the procession. He is devastated, but there are others, equally bereft, with him: Ruth Cerf, Taro's old friend from Leipzig with whom she fled to Paris; Willy Chardack, ex-lover; Georg Kuritzkes, another lover and a key figure in the International Brigades. They have all known a different Gerda, and one who is at times radically at odds with the heroic anti-fascist figure being mourned by the multitudes . . . Another character in the novel is the era itself, the 1930s, with economic depression, the rise of Nazism, hostility towards refugees in France, the century's ideological warfare, the cultural ferment, and the ascendancy of photography as the age's quintessential art form. Winner of the Strega Prize, The Girl with the Leica is a must-read for fans of historical fiction centered on extraordinary women's lives. "A biography, a feminist parable, a declaration of love for photography, and a tableau of the 1930s: The Girl with the Leica is all this at once." —Il Sole 24 Ore (Italy) "Janeczek creatively and seamlessly spotlights war photographer Gerda Pohorylle." —Publishers Weekly

Questo libro non parla di semiotica, non esamina le sue basi scientifiche, non ne illustra le teorie né discute degli autori che le hanno formulate. Il suo obiettivo semmai è quello di parlare la semiotica, farne cioè una lingua con cui articolare un discorso sul mondo, su ciò che ci circonda e, dunque, sui fatti umani e sociali che ci toccano. Quando questo accade si passa dalla semiotica alla sociosemiotica. Ed è allora che tecnologie, fotografie, pubblicità, cibo, libri e perfino un artefatto complesso come Ikea si rivelano parte di quell'unico "grande sistema" che è la semiosfera. Ricostruirla, allora, non significa andare a caccia dei significati più o meno oscuri che si celano dietro i più diversi segni, ma cogliere i processi di significazione che fanno sì che i segni possano esistere, facendo di un oggetto un soggetto in grado di comunicare.

Ansel Adams (1902-1984) produced some of the 20th century's most iconic photographic images and helped nurture the art of photography through his creative innovations and peerless technical mastery. The Negative--the second volume in Adams' celebrated series of books on photographic techniques--has taught generations of photographers how to use film and the film development process creatively. Examples of Adams' own work clarify the principles discussed. This classic handbook distills the knowledge gained through a lifetime in photography and remains as vital today as when it was first published.

Anchored by a detailed discussion of Adams' Zone System and his seminal concept of visualization, The Negative covers artificial and natural light, film and exposure, and darkroom equipment and techniques. Beautifully illustrated with photographs as well as instructive line drawings, this classic manual can dramatically improve your photography. "Adams is a clear-thinking writer whose concepts cannot but help the serious photographer." - New York Times "A master-class kind of guide from an undisputed master." - Publishers Weekly Over 1 million copies sold. Publisher's Note: This ebook of The Negative works best as a digital companion to the print edition. The ebook was produced by electronically scanning and digitizing a print edition, and as a result, your reading device may display images with halftone or moiré patterns.

This book is a collection of Riis' stories that were first published in the Century Magazine. The book picks up where Riis' other books leave off, and it documents the changes and advancements that took place since the publications of his other pieces. In the book, Riis explores many aspects of life in the slums. He documents the lives of slum children, immigrants and other minorities, and he explores the efforts that charitable organizations have made in trying to improve living conditions for the poor. In addition to providing an account of Riis' personal experience, the book also includes Riis' own photographs of the New York City slums which sheds new light on what life in the tenements was like.

In an 1828 letter to his partner, Nicéphore Niépce, Louis Daguerre wrote, "I am burning with desire to see your experiments from nature." In this book, Geoffrey Batchen analyzes the desire to photograph as it emerged within the philosophical and scientific milieus that preceded the actual invention of photography. Recent accounts of photography's identity tend to divide between the postmodern view that all identity is determined by context and a formalist effort to define the fundamental characteristics of photography as a medium. Batchen critiques both approaches by way of a detailed discussion of photography's conception in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. He examines the output of the various nominees for "first photographer," then incorporates this information into a mode of historical criticism informed by the work of Michel Foucault and Jacques Derrida. The result is a way of thinking about photography that persuasively accords with the medium's undeniable conceptual, political, and historical complexity.

of art that the city itself produced over the years. Featuring historical places that have been fundamental in the history of New York's music scene and no longer exist; streets, buildings, and boroughs described in their work by great New York artists; and places where everything started or everything happened for the city's most representative artists. Our aim is to write a story about history, art, music, and New York City, and create a journey through this tradition, around historical places that are holding memories of the past while the future is written somewhere else."

In this volume, leading scholars of photography and media examine photography's vital role in the evolution of media and communication in the nineteenth century. In the first half of the nineteenth century, the introduction of telegraphy, the development of a cheaper and more reliable postal service, the rise of the mass-circulation press, and the emergence of the railway dramatically changed the way people communicated and experienced time and space.

Concurrently, photography developed as a medium that changed how images were produced and circulated. Yet, for the most part, photography of the era is studied outside the field of media history. The contributors to this volume challenge those established disciplinary boundaries as they programmatically explore the intersections of photography and "new media" during a period of fast-paced change. Their essays look at the emergence and early history of photography in the context of broader changes in the history of communications; the role of the nascent photographic press in photography's infancy; and the development of photographic techniques as part of a broader media culture that included the mass-consumed novel, sound recording, and cinema. Featuring essays by noteworthy historians in photography and media history, this discipline-shifting examination of the communication revolution of the nineteenth century is an essential addition to the field of media studies. In addition to the editors, contributors to this volume are Geoffrey Batchen, Geoffrey Belknap, Lynn Berger, Jan von Brevern, Anthony Enns, André Gaudreault, Lisa Gitelman, David Henkin, Erkki Huhtamo, Philippe Marion, Peppino Ortoleva, Steffen Siegel, Richard Taws, and Kim Timby.

Witness in Our Time traces the recent history of social documentary photography in the words of twenty-nine of the genre's best photographers, editors, and curators, showing how the profession remains vital, innovative, and committed to social change. The second edition includes a new section of interviews on documentary photography in the field and an exploration of the role of photojournalism in 21st-century media. Witness in Our Time provides an insider's view of a profession that continues to confront questions of art and truth while extending the definitions of both.

Nella selva decadente della decaduta società moderna Luogos si propone come lampeggiante isola incorrotta che scruta il mondo vivo nella propria essenza e che abbraccia l'assenza di ciò che ci circonda nella buona pace dei nostri sensi. L'occhio di Luogos si ferma ovunque arrivi la Bellezza, nell'irreale universo onirico proiettato da parole o immagini di artisti e nel reale mondo che filosofi, storici, architetti e scienziati cercano di mostrarci. Noi siamo ciò che è e ciò che non è. Siamo il camussiano urlo degli uomini in faccia al loro destino. Abbiamo deciso di essere tutto ciò che è Cultura e abbiamo dato vita a un assetto ramificato in otto grandi sezioni: una di queste dedicata alla Scrittura, creativa e non, una dedicata all'Arte, una all'Architettura e al Design, una alla Fotografia, una a Filosofia, Storia e Psicologia, una alla Scienza e infine una allo Spettacolo.

There has been much debate on the purposes and methods of assessment over the last couple of years. This book gathers together the latest thinking and looks at how assessment can be used to promote or inhibit learning. Unlike other books on the market, this one summarizes theory and shows how it can be best put into practice, using as little jargon as possible. Some of the issues discussed in this text include: * how assessment can erode self-esteem and motivation * how skills of reflection, self-evaluation and personal target setting can impact on learning * how far learners of all ages understand what they are required to learn * how far students are able to evaluate their own performance and what schools can do in the short, medium and long-term to promote more effective learning. Part of the What's In It For Schools series, this book is ideal for teachers and other non-academics concerned with education who require a grounding in the issue to help them in their daily work.

The older paradigm for photojournalists was to simply record events, with the hope and frequently the expectation that people and their governments would be moved to respond to the injustices pictured; as witnessed by the impact of certain images during the Civil Rights movement and the Vietnam War. Given evolving media and political climates, however, including the billions of images now available online from all kinds of sources, the purpose and effectiveness of media, in particular of visual journalism, has been called into question. Bending the Frame: Photojournalism, Documentary, and Citizenship, by author and critic Fred Ritchin, addresses the new and emerging potentials for visual media to impact society. Ritchin examines the historical and contemporary uses of photography and related media to inspire social change. From the unintended consequences of citizen journalism and leaked images such as those from Abu Ghraib, to the new strategies by visual journalists and the targeted human rights projects by documentary photographers, the intention of this book is to provide a much-needed critical approach to the issues involved in such efforts. Also encompassing online efforts, uses of video, and a diverse range of books and exhibitions, Bending the Frame aims for as wide-ranging and farreaching a discussion as possible, asking the critical question: how can images promote new thinking and make a difference in the world? As the visual component of contemporary media has overtaken the verbal, visual reportage has established a unique and extremely significant role in 21st-century culture. Julianne Newton has prepared this comprehensive analysis of the development of the role of visual reportage as a critical player in the evolution of our understanding of ourselves, others, and the world. The Burden of Visual Truth offers a first assessment of the role of visual journalism within the context of the complex, cross-disciplinary pool of literature and ideas required for synthesis. Newton approaches the subject matter from several perspectives, examining the theoretical and ideological bases for visual truth, particularly as conveyed by the news media, and applying relevant research on photojournalism and reality imagery to contemporary newspaper, broadcast, and internet professional practice. She extends visual communication theory by proposing an ecology of the visual for 21st century life and developing a typology of human visual behavior. Scholars in visual studies, media studies, journalism, nonverbal communication, cultural history, and psychology will find this analysis invaluable as a comprehensive base for studying reality imaging and human visual behavior. The volume also is appropriate for journalism and media studies coursework at the undergraduate and graduate levels. With its conclusions about the future of visual reportage, The Burden of Visual Truth also will be compelling reading for journalism and mass communication professionals concerned with improving media credibility and maintaining a significant course for journalism in the 21st century. For all who seek to understand the role of visual media in the formation of their views of the world and of their own identities, this volume is a must-read.

"DECREAZIONE" is a book collecting Joseph Koudelka's images exhibited at the fifty-fifth Venice Biennale, at the Vatican Pavilion. With his suggestive black-and-white images and his moving, desolated landscapes, Koudelka tells stories of destruction, declined in three different forms: time, violence, and contrast between nature and uncontrolled industrial development. Josef Koudelka was born in Moravia in 1938. He published numerous photographic books on the relationship between man and landscape, about gypsy life, and on the invasion of Prague in 1968. Significant exhibitions of his works have been held at international museums and galleries and he received numerous major awards.

The source of any photograph is not the camera or even the scene viewed through the viewfinder-it is the mind of the photographer: this is where an image is created before it is committed to a memory card or film. In The Photographer's Mind, the follow-up to the international best-seller, The Photographer's Eye, photographer and author Michael Freeman unravels the mystery behind the creation of a photograph. The nature of photography demands that the viewer constantly be intrigued and surprised by new imagery and different interpretations, more so than in any other art form. The aim of this book is to answer what makes a photograph great, and to explore the ways that top photographers achieve this goal time and time again. As you delve deeper into this subject, The Photographer's Mind will

Michael Freeman is the author of the global bestseller, The Photographer's Eye. Now published in sixteen languages, The Photographer's Eye continues to speak to photographers everywhere. Reaching 100,000 copies in print in the US alone, and 300,000+ worldwide, it shows how anyone can develop the ability to see and shoot great digital photographs.

Die Korrespondenz zwischen körperlichen Merkmalen und dem Charakter eines Menschen, die im 19. Jahrhundert die Matrix für die Naturwissenschaften fungierte, stellt heute die Basis von Lifestyle-Normen oder auch von psychologischer und medizinischer Diagnostik dar. Infolge strukturalistisch-semiotischer Methoden gilt die Physiognomik immer noch als Deutungsdispositiv bei Formen literarischer Personendarstellungen oder philosophischer Deutung menschlichen Antlitzes. In den durch umfangreiche mediale und technische Umwälzungen hervorgebrachten Modellierungen der Sinnlichkeit erweist sich die Physiognomik auch als Paradigma des Enhancements. Der Band untersucht historisch und systematisch die biopolitische Performativität physiognomischer Praktiken der Selbst- und Fremddeutung, ihre Gestaltung sowie ihre Transformationen durch neue Technologien. Er diskutiert ihre materiell-mediale Dynamik, das in der Ästhetik von Texten und Medien implizierte Lebenswissen, Formen der Affektforschung sowie die anthropozentrischen Implikationen der Physiognomik.

A oltre sessanta anni dalla sua pubblicazione, Misurazione e valutazione nel processo educativo (1955) di Aldo Visalberghi rappresenta ancora un utile punto di riferimento per leggere criticamente gli approcci emergenti nella valutazione di apprendimenti, scuole e università. della misura” invocato da Aldo Visalberghi, i richiami alla necessità di un rapporto dialettico tra valutazione e misurazione e a un’oggettività “relativa e critica” conservano intatto il loro valore. Questo lavoro restituisce una prima raccolta di contributi degli esperti che, il 18 e 19 gennaio 2016, hanno partecipato al Convegno “Misurazione e Valutazione di scuole e università. Inattualità di Aldo Visalberghi”, organizzato presso il Dipartimento di Scienze della Formazione dell’Università di Catania. Le relazioni si concentrano sulla rilevanza del testo del 1955 in riferimento a due dinamiche ben presenti, oggi, nel nostro sistema educativo: quella relativa alla rilevazione degli apprendimenti e quella legata alla valutazione di scuole e università.

This Italian reference grammar provides students, teachers and others interested in the Italian language with a comprehensive, accessible and jargon-free guide to the forms and structure of Italian. Whatever their level of knowledge of the language, learners of Italian will find this book indispensable: it gives clear and detailed explanations of everything from the most elementary facts such as the relation between spelling and pronunciation, or the forms of the article, to more advanced points such as the various nuances of the subjunctive. Formal or archaic discourse is distinguished from informal, everyday usage, and regionalisms are also indicated where appropriate. The authors have taken care to make it an easy and illuminating reference tool: extensive cross-referencing enables readers to quickly find the information they require, and also stimulates them to discover new, related facts.

In the last decade, interest in photography has exploded. Among the most compelling and popular art forms, photography is now recognized as central to the development of modern and contemporary art. In this accessibly written survey, art photography comes alive through a series of David Bate traces major developments and themes from the earliest days of photography, in the 1830s, to the present day, examining the many ways in which photography and art have intersected since the birth of the medium. Featuring works from a wide and international group of artists--including Henry Fox Talbot, Roger Fenton, Lee Miller, Brassai, Robert Frank, Nan Goldin, Ed Ruscha, and Gillian Wearing--this comprehensive volume uncovers the Anglo-American and European contexts of art photography, as well as the Asian, African, and Middle Eastern perspectives.

John Berger's writings on photography are some of the most original of the twentieth century. This selection contains many groundbreaking essays and previously uncollected pieces written for exhibitions and catalogues in which Berger probes the work of photographers such as Henri Cartier-Bresson and W. The selection is made and introduced by Geoff Dyer, author of the award-winning The Ongoing Moment. How do we see the world around us? This is one of a number of pivotal works by creative thinkers whose writings on art, design and the media have changed our vision for ever. Understanding a Photograph John Berger Edited and introduced by Geoff Dyer combine sound and pictures, public radio, documentary filmmaking and the best of television news features. This amalgam of traditions has emerged to serve the Internet's voracious appetite for video stories. Videojournalism is written for the new generation of "backpack" journalists. The solo videojournalist must find a riveting story; gain access to charismatic characters who can tell their own tales; shoot candid clips; expertly interview the players; record clear, clean sound; write a script with pizzazz; and, finally, edit the material into a piece worthy of five minutes of a viewer's attention.

Videojournalism addresses all of these challenges, and more - never losing sight of the main point: telling a great story. This book, based on extensive interviews with professionals in the field, is for anyone learning how to master the art and craft of telling real short-form stories with words, sound and pictures for the Web or television. The opening chapters cover the foundations of multimedia storytelling, and the book progresses to the techniques required to shoot professional video, and record high quality sound and market the resulting product. Videojournalism also has its own website - go to just one URL and find all the stories mentioned in the book. You also will find various "how-to" videos on the site. To keep up with the latest changes in the field such as new cameras, new books, new stories or editing software, check the site regularly and "like"

Viviamo nel tempo dei “selfie”, delle immagini che si moltiplicano pervasive sui media, nei social network. Un profluvio confuso e chiassoso di fotografie, che finirebbe per nascondere, neutralizzare il loro messaggio in un indistinto rumore di fondo. Ma non è sempre così. Vi sono immagini infatti che riescono ancora a guardarci, a interpellarci, a fissarsi saldamente nella memoria collettiva. Sono quelle che l'autrice chiama “fotografie del silenzio”. Con questo termine però non si intendono tanto le immagini che rappresentano luoghi incantati e silenti, quanto piuttosto le fotografie che sanno creare uno spazio di silenzio dentro di noi, un intervallo inquieto che ferma e sospende i nostri sguardi e i nostri pensieri, per aprirli verso un altrove, verso un “non dicibile” che ci disorienta e ci interpella. Attraverso l'esempio di numerose ricerche di autori italiani e stranieri questo libro si propone di accompagnare il lettore in un viaggio all'interno di una fotografia contemporanea dove il silenzio può rivelarsi “una forza” nel momento in cui incrina le nostre certezze, offrendosi come un dono sommerso che rivela la dimensione misteriosa nascosta nelle immagini e nella realtà stessa. Consapevoli o no, nuotiamo immersi nelle disuguaglianze. Benché incomparabilmente più ricco di quanto sia mai stato prima, il nostro è ancora un mondo di tremende privazioni e disuguaglianze sconvolgenti. Oltre a essere composita e disomogenea, la disuguaglianza risulta essere anche “scivolosa”, sia per la molteplicità di terreni, spesso impervi e sconosciuti, in cui nasce, sia per il modo in cui evolve e viene percepita. Di fronte a un concetto così “vischioso” e allo stesso tempo così pervasivo, è possibile tracciare degli immaginari condivisi e trasversali? O, al contrario, la multidimensionalità della disuguaglianza produce una percezione sfaccettata e una molteplicità di visioni? Spunto decisivo per iniziare a riflettere è il concorso fotografico nazionale “Contrasti”, promosso nel 2017 dall’organizzazione non governativa Oxfam Italia. Un viaggio all’esplorazione di questa “terra incognita”, dove fotografia e sociologia si incontrano in quel sentiero tortuoso che è la sociologia visuale. photography, and even the theatre, in order to explore how artistic engagement in women informed their views on, and reactions to the challenges of a changing society and a 'disinhibiting' intellectual landscape. However, one other objective takes on a central role in this volume: that of opening a window on the re-definition of the subjectivity of the self that occurred during an intriguing and still not fully studied period of artistic and societal changes. In particular, the present volume aims to define a female Italian Modernism which can be seen as complementary, and not necessarily in opposition, to its male counterpart.
